A hot time in the old

Well, that was a start! If you’re going to get hot, you may as well break a record – and yes, we did. One of the things I usually love about living in the hills, are the cool nights in summer. We don’t have air conditioning as such (I did buy a little portable one to run on those two nights a year when we need it), and the old place is pretty good – unless there are no cool nights. I’d like to think it’s over for the summer, but I’m not sure we could be that lucky. Anyhow, I couldn’t resist adding a couple of my favourite funnies from the net, and in case you missed seeing it, below is the weather map which reminded us (as if we didn’t know) that it was going to be hot, damn hot.

As our country bakes, and the situation with the Murray Darling becomes dire, calls for action on climate change are getting louder, with Sir David Attenborough making a plea for global intervention at the World Economic Forum. People on the land have known for a while that although things go in cycles, there are warning signs that if ignored, will be catastrophic for us all. On the upside – it seemed that the instances of power outages were fewer. Is this because of the increase in the uptake of solar? Whatever the reason, it’s great not having to worry about keeping the frozen stuff frozen and the cold stuff cold.

The Internet Scavengers - PMSLweb.com

The Mt Pleasant Community Association again held the Australia Day ‘Breakfast in the Garden’ and we were lucky with the beautiful mild weather. The group met during the week, sorted out what we needed to buy, Paula went shopping and we all met early on Saturday to set up and start cooking. The breakfast has been going for a few years now, started by the Hall committee, then Mt Pleasant Inc, and now the MP Community Association. It is run independent of council and therefore receives no funding, but we think it’s important that our community is able to gather and acknowledge the efforts of community individuals and organisations. The awards for 2018 are as follows: ‘Gold’ – Chris Birrell, ‘Gold Recognition’ – Sue Streich, ‘Best Group’ – MP Red Cross, ‘Best Group Recognition’ – MP Men’s Shed and ‘Best Event’ – Cells & Cellarbrations. This year we had two extra awards – Michael Seager was presented with a Community Service Award for his 30 plus years on council and the various committees and projects he was involved with, and Paula Bartsch was given the ‘History Hero’ award for her amazing efforts over 2018 commemorating 175 years of settlement. For the full article on Paula’s achievements – see page 4.

Kristy & Allan Loechel, together with their children Bradley, Aaliyah and newborn Charlie are hoping that the reduced service won't come at a high personal cost.

Whilst the new restricted hours at the hospital's accident and emergency are not ideal, it's probably not the time to panic.

During the war the slogan was 'be alert but not alarmed', and we could probably apply it here. It seems that we have at least retained accident and emergency services – just not any requiring an on-call situation. This doesn't help some locals who do have some serious and ongoing health issues, but unless we can attract some long term, committed health professionals, this is what we have to live with.

Continuing to support our clinic and hospital, as well as other services ensures our town continues to thrive – we have just passed the 1,000 mark, something that quite a few of us thought we'd never reach, and that's a good thing. Steady growth augurs well for our future, and indicates to people who are contemplating a move, that Mt Pleasant is a beautiful rural community with all the essential services either here, or very close by, and is a viable option.

The solution the doctors, hospital and SA Health have come up with is the best we could hope for, all things considered, and it's good that the conversation regarding the recruitment system for country doctors has been brought to the public's attention – again. Paula can recall having a long interview with former Mt Pleasant doctor Bob Cotton on this issue over a decade ago.

Mount Pleasant has had the services of a stable and professional clinic service for decades, compared to a lot of other areas in Australia, which haven't been as lucky.

MOUNT PLEASANT ACCIDENT AND EMERGENCY HOURS CHANGE

Mount Pleasant residents will soon receive after-hours emergency care from hospitals in surrounding areas due to a reduction in the number of doctors available to provide on-call services at Mount Pleasant District Hospital.

Country Health SA (CHSA) Regional Director of Nursing and Midwifery, Wendy Harvey, said the new hours will come into operation from 4 March 2019.

"Due to a shortage of GPs at Talunga Clinic, the Mount Pleasant District Hospital will no longer have on-call emergency services available 24 hours per day," Ms Harvey said.

"The Accident and Emergency Service (AE) will have on-call doctors available between 8am and 6pm seven days a week and anyone requiring medical assistance out of these hours should call 000.

"Last year, a total of 820 people presented to the Mount Pleasant AE and less than a third of these presentations were overnight, amounting to an average of four presentations per week.

"Of those 820 total presentations, only two people had conditions that were considered life threatening and just 40 patients needed urgent care.

"While we recognise this will be a change for the community, there are four hospitals that provide 24/7 emergency services within 30 minutes of Mount Pleasant District Hospital including Gumeracha, Mannum, Angaston and Gawler hospitals."

CHSA Acting Deputy Chief Executive Officer of Barossa Hills and Fleurieu, Debbie Martin, said the Talunga Clinic is privately owned and recruits their own staff.

"Across the state, GPs are contracted to provide medical services to our local hospitals and while the circumstances changed for the local GPs, we continue strive to provide high-quality acute care for the community," Ms Martin said.

Talunga Clinic General Practitioner, Dr Bryan Goh, said while the clinic made every effort to recruit high-quality doctors to the service, ultimately an alternative model of safe care was necessary to implement.

"We are committed to providing excellent and sustainable healthcare services to the community and the difficult decision had to be made in order to prioritise patient safety," Dr Goh said.

Any residents of Mount Pleasant that require medical assistance should call 000 immediately, where an ambulance will transport them to the most appropriate hospital.

Congratulations to Bob Myers (pictured left with Wanda) who received an OAM in the Australia Day honours. Bob received his award for decades of service for the environment. Well deserved.

Clockwise from top left: Our wonderful On the Edge Choir, Michael Seager accepting his 'Community Service' award, Chris & Steve Birrell received 'Best Event' for 'Cells & Cellarbrations', some of the CFS Cadets who received the 'Junior Recognition' award, Councillor Don Barrett presenting Paula Bartsch with the 'History Hero' award, Chris Birrell who received the 'Gold' award, Sue Streich received the 'Gold Recognition award', the Men's Shed mob received 'Best Group Recognition' for their community efforts, and the Red Cross were awarded 'Best Group.'

Paula Barstch

Our History Hero

Last year we celebrated 175 years of settlement in Mount Pleasant – quite the achievement for a small town in South Australia, especially as so many small towns are struggling for survival. Against all the odds, Mount Pleasant’s population has actually grown, and we have hit the 1,000 mark. Despite all the cutbacks to services, our community is thriving and will continue to grow as long as we have faith and display that wonderful can-do attitude that our forebears did.

Paula Bartsch is our town Historian. When the History Room was established in the old Library in the hall in 2004, Paula was there to oversee the safe storage and curation of the wealth of information donated by local people and organisations – but little did she know that she’d be the only one for a very long time. Over the years she has been joined by a handful of people who have helped and supported her in one way or another, but the bulk of the responsibility has always fallen to Paula.

In 2017 she had an idea to celebrate the 175th year of settlement, but was loathe to organise a single event, as she was involved in so many other things. We knew that wouldn’t last. Community organisations were approached and were happy to acknowledge the milestone during their events, but she thought there was still room for something more.

Paula started the year by again helping to organise the Australia Day breakfast – as well as gathering the nominations to award community honours, and then taking on the role of MC.

The Red Cross Garden Party was in February, and in March Paula took over as convener in the Art section for the MP Show – and although not strictly a 175 event, it added to an already full workload.

In April we saw the Police Station event, then Anzac Day for which Paula researched and mounted a display.

May is History month, and by its very nature it’s a big series of events for any historian or group, and apart from mounting a display in the hall, Paula arranged a tour of cemeteries, which included a lunch at Mannum.

In June she organised another successful Violet Day – continuing the marvelous tradition started by Alexandrine Seager, all those years ago.

July brought the Time Capsule launch in the market, which again included a lot of research and collation. Unfortunately the Historic Walk had to be postponed to October because of the terrible weather.

In August Paula took some time off with Bill to take a short holiday, and then it was back to business, organising the Quiz Night for the beginning of September.

Two weeks after that, we held the ‘Cocktails and Carriages’ event to commemorate the 100 years of rail coming to Mt Pleasant.

As the weather was much kinder by October, the rescheduled History Walk took us around important and significant sites in Mt Pleasant, with commentary from people who remembered times long gone, it was a great learning experience.

During November Paula finished collating the ‘175 Recipes’ book, and sent it to the printers so it would be ready for release at the Street Party. The rest of November was putting the final touches to the Street Party, which took place on the first of December. Despite again experiencing rain – it was a great event and we’ll be back this year.

This doesn’t cover all that Paula was involved in. There were also quite a few history workshops, and meetings she chaired as head of the Barossa Regional Heritage Network, not to mention helping with the Men’s Shed and other groups. Despite all of the work she did last year, she still managed to finish the year with a smile – although she is intending to stick to her vow of keeping things simple this year!

Thank you, Paula, you remind us all that it’s never too late to make your mark – and people who say they don’t have time to help don’t know what they’re talking about!

FARMERS MARKET

Twilight Market

Happy 7th Birthday

Ciao Frank!

With great sadness we say goodbye to one of our favourite farmers market family members, and one of our inaugural stallholders, Frank Baldasso from Kenton Valley Growers. Frank has been advised by his doctors to slow down so he has made the decision with much regret to finish up at the market. The Management & Board wish Frank and his wife Rosemary & family all the best for their future, and extend their gratitude for his long outstanding service & commitment to the Mt Pleasant Farmers Market.

The Market is now Plastic Bag FREE.

Mt Pleasant Farmers Market stallholders will no longer be able to provide plastic bags to customers. Grab a box or remember to bring your re-usable produce bags. If you haven't got yours yet, you may purchase them at the Green Farmhouse/ Members: 5 bags for $9.

Stage 1, 10th Jan: won by Letizia Paternoster

The Women's Stage 1 event came from Williamstown and turned right at Cricks Mill Road on towards the finish at Birdwood. This was won by Letizia Paternoster.

Thanks again to Glynn Jackson for his pics!

Stage 2, 16th Jan: won by Patrick Bevin

The call to arms came a little too late, and during a heatwave for many of us to respond to the change in the route for Stage 2 of the Tour Down Under, although some of the marketing mob we talked to thought it was cute we'd put up the bows for them. Nevertheless, a few business owners managed to rustle up some bunting and welcomed the peloton as it sped past. Waste management just managed to go through the main street before it was closed, and the rest of us kicked back with a cool wine or two and watched.

Bank@Post

Australia Post provides transaction services on behalf of more than 70 banks and financial institutions, at over 3,500 participating Post Offices across the country. Many of you will be aware that ANZ personal banking services are no longer available from 15th Jan. But – our local post office still offers plenty for the consumer. As the full list is too large to add here, please go to the auspost.com.au site, or ask Anne or Rose. They'll be only too happy to help.

With our Bank@Post service, you can:

- make deposits and withdrawals
- check your account balance
- pay credit card bills
- perform financial transactions for your business

Who can use Bank@Post?

Anyone with an account at one of our participating banks and financial institutions can use Bank@Post. All you need is:

- a designated account from a participating financial institution
- a plastic transaction card
- a Personal Identification Number (PIN)

Benefits:

- More choice - we act as an extension of your financial institution so it's like having 3,500 banking branches to choose from.
- No extra fees - we don't charge fees to use Bank@Post. (Check the account terms and conditions of your financial institution to see if you'll be charged)
- Convenience while travelling - when you're away from home you can use Bank@Post around Australia
- Business transactions - take care of your business transactions, mail and office supplies in one place, at one time.

The staff at our Post office can help you with banking or bill paying – not to mention the great range of office stationery and gifts they stock. If you're not sure – just ask!

Pete's Poem

It's been a trying summer, with all about so dry,
And I look out on my garden, with an anxious gard'ners eye.
Too little water in the dam, too little green to see,
But as I ventured out just now,
Some thoughts occurred to me....

Though the lawn is crunchy underfoot, and the cold tap's running hot,
I look up at our Aussie sky, and treasure all I've got ...
The tomatoes won't be plump this year; the orchard's not the best,
The pumpkins and zucchinis are scorched, and very, very stressed.

BUT.... like an act of kindness, in a world of selfish deeds,
I see my sunflow'rs smiling, from a sea of sun-scorched weeds.
And although my heart is heavy, at the bareness all around,
I'm already putting compost in, for my next time around!!

Men's Shedding

RSL news

It's been a pretty good start to the year for the Men's Shed. Murray Henderson has taken over the reins as interim President until the AGM, and he was on hand to accept the Community Association's Australia Day Best Group Recognition award from Councillor Don Barrett – who also happens to be Secretary of the Men's Shed. The award was in recognition of the enormous amount of volunteer work our group contributes to our community – this last month alone we have provided a food stall for both twilight markets, and we also helped cook the Australia Day Breakfast!

In other news, the Quirky has been shifted from Chris and Steve Birrell's place to our site, and the magnificent 707 Train now takes pride of place at Talunga Park – where the kids have discovered it and it's proven to be hugely popular.

Many thanks to our members, who have contributed to our numerous activities in any way, and thank you to the Community Association for the award.

RSL Member Chris Birrell was presented with the Australia Day Gold award for her community efforts. Chris hasn't been with us for very long, but jumped straight in and started helping wherever she could. She has been a great asset to our community and we congratulate her and thank her for her efforts. Well done, Chris!

In other news, the first meeting for the year was held and the year's events were discussed. Merry Schaeffer who has run the Anzac ceremonies for the last four years during the centenary commemorations will be taking a break this year, so we are looking for volunteers to help us stage this significant event. Please get in touch via the Facebook page, or email: mountpleasantsrl@hotmail.com

Many thanks to Merry and her helpers for their amazing efforts, the huge crowds we have attracted are testament to the thoroughness and dedication you have shown.

Show Baking – an introduction

Contrary to popular opinion it's not just for the super talented, or the uber competitive grandmas. It's open to anyone who can turn on an oven, and it's heaps of fun. Have you ever wanted to enter, but not sure where to start, what to do, or even if you are up for it? Well, follow us, we've got some misconceptions to bust open.....

Valmai Auricht, she's a legend in these parts. Seasoned Show judge, convenor, and master of all things baked - what she doesn't know about German Yeast cake, is not worth knowing. And she's going to spend an afternoon with us (and you) sharing all the tips and tricks as she makes one from scratch, and then talk about how to enter it in the show. Valmai is also going to critique a marble cake and scones, and give you tips and tricks about what the judges are looking for, and pass on her experienced tips about how to achieve those results. She will definitely make you a better show baker, but she'll probably make you a better everyday baker too. Winning, right?

Valmai isn't having all the fun though, Those Barossa Girls are pulling on the preserving aprons to take you through fruit preserving using the Fowlers Vacola method, and how to prepare your fruit and jam entries for showing. We know you've all got old jars languishing in a shed somewhere...lets fill them up and put them back into beautiful service!

Valmai, Sheralee and Marieka will demystify the show process and encourage new participants (that's you!) to enter a category at the upcoming local shows. This will be a friendly and fun afternoon where you can ask questions at any time.

This is a free event, proudly supported by the Tanunda Show Committee. Tea, coffee and a shared afternoon tea provided. Children over 5 who are interested in show baking are welcome if accompanied by an adult.

What's on in February...

Community Dinner returns
24th February:
Spit Roast Pig & Lamb
by the Two Michaels!

Did you know that one of the only 'old technology' businesses that is currently experiencing a revival is the bookshop? And now there are Little Free Libraries – check them out. We are very lucky to have Star Books in town, and the Post Office also has a good range of reasonably priced books – plus our fantastic Library.
