2023 Annual General Meeting President's Report

WOW! What a productive 1st year as President, we have continued to run our regular events throughout the year as well as adding new ones. These events would not be able to run without our wonderful committee members and large number of volunteers who support each event.

Thankyous first must go to our wonderful committee members, with special mention to our Secretary Joyleen Burton and Treasurer Glenda Rogers who also publish our monthly Tungkillo Gazette. The committee have worked hard throughout the year to add to the hall, grounds, and community of Tungkillo.

Thank you to the wonderful group who run the regular card luncheon, this event is looked forward to and always enjoyed by those who attend. Other events we hold throughout the year include our Community Bingo which sees people come from within Tungkillo and the surrounding communities.

Two annual events we hold each year are our Annual Monster Auction and our Tungkillo Christmas Lights Competition.

April saw the park fill with items for the Tungkillo Monster Auction. We thank everyone who supported the Auction, as a volunteer, donators, sellers, or buyers, it takes many hands to run the event and it is a great fundraiser for the community. Thanks to a donation from Morris Collins, we ran a very successful wood raffle which was supported by many and an added fundraiser to the wood sold at the auction which was donated by the Lynch Family.

We look forward to seeing the town light up for Christmas, and our decoration competition. Each year our mystery judges have a tough time picking between the houses and we love seeing the Christmas spirit come into town.

We were fortunate enough to be nominated by Anne Burgess for an Australia Post Community Grant, which we were successful in. The grant was for $1000 which is being used to establish a native food and fire-retardant plant garden. We have had many working bees in this area, all are welcome to join this working group. This garden adds another element to our constantly improving, community space.

The committee has seen new members join and past members return, with new members come new ideas and we now have two regular events being ran from our hall. Anne Reynolds started a learn to make a rag rug workshop, which now as evolved into a coffee and craft afternoon, held on Mondays. Kerry Leenders has begun a Twilight Market on the last Thursday of the month. The first one held last month was very successful. We also look forward to Sue Simpsons upcoming Preserves Workshop next week. It is exciting to see more events being held within Tungkillo, and the space being used by the community.

Over the year we have held several working bees to tidy up around the hall and finish projects. The paving around the memorial garden has been completed and the grounds are tidy ready for the bush fire season. Thank you to all that have helped at these events.

Looking around the hall you will notice there are new items hanging on the wall, these include World War I Soldiers, local history and paintings. Thank you to all that have donated these items, and to Martin Lenders for your time in hanging them. Please take the time after the meeting to have a look at all the pieces we are proud to have on display.

On a sad note, our bell has been stolen. We have received a lot of media attention on this and hopefully it will soon be returned. If you know anything, please contact Crimestoppers or SAPOL.

Once again thankyou to all for your support and hard work, and for attending this evening's meeting. My two-year term is over and I hope to be re-elected to continue to work with this exciting group. Good luck to all of those also up for election, and thank you to Alan Lintern, who has chosen to end his time on the committee, I know you will continue to support us.

I'd like to end by thanking our community for their support of our group and all that we are working to do within Tungkillo.

Good luck to the new committee.

Lilly Pilly (Australian Cherries)

This is a fast-growing plant that can reach up to 5-6 metres if unpruned in the garden, but up to 30 metre in its habitat which is in the Australian rainforest. Lilly Pilly belongs to the Myrtaceae family. We have many varieties of Lilly Pillies in Australia but 3 come up which are good for the Aussie back yard and provide a great source of berries, that you can harvest.

- 1- Acemena
- 2- Syzygium
- 3- Waterhousea

These plants make a spectacular screening hedge, with its thick green foliage this makes them the ideal windbreak hedge for any garden, as well for attracting birdlife. Although they are a tree, they perform well to a regular pruning and can be made into any shape that you desire (Topiary).

Lilly Pilly's prefer good well drained fertile soil but still do well in drought tolerant conditions. The Lilly Pilly is a hardy plant and can be grown in a range of soils from sandy to heavy clay, but will need to have adequate drainage. They do particularly well if you also keep them well mulched. These plants can do quite well when grown in pots, but can quickly dry out so remember to keep up the moisture.

When stressed they are more prone to diseases such as

- | | |
|------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1- Scale | treat with white oil |
| 2- Lilly Pilly Psyllid | Native Australian insect that burrow's inside of leaves creating pimple like damage |
| 3- Myrtle Rust | remove and dispose of any disease foliage in plastic bag- be extremely careful to prevent the spread of spores and spray with and approved fungicide. |

Lilly Pilly is a hardy plant which usually resists most disease if you keep them well fed-watered and healthy.

Lilly Pillies produces white fragrant flowers in summer which the bees adore, followed by the berries that are perfect for sauces, preserves and jams. Whole unwashed berries can keep up to 2-3 weeks in a fridge and fruit can be frozen for up to 2 years. Lilly Pilly fruit can be eaten fresh from the tree, they are an acquired taste – generally quite tart and have a spicy clove-like undertone. Some berries are seedless while most have seeds, remove seeds before eating. Lilly Pilly fruits are ripe once they have turned to the bright colours. This can vary from species to species. You will also find when ready to eat the berry will be slightly soft and come off the tree when fully ripe.

Lilly Pillies can have a fire-resistant quality due to their dense green foliage a good one is the Acmena smitii. Great to plant along fence line around property on home. Lilly Pillies has a spreading root system rather than a long tap root like many native trees, roots can spread for quite a long way in search of water. General the Lilly Pilly has a non-invasive root system, however their roots can travel up to 7 metre to find water. However, if roots don't find water the plant will acclimatise and survive in relatively dry conditions. Keeping up with regular pruning will also help contain the root system, what you need to keep in mind is that the plant root system will grow in direct proportion of each plant.

Indigenous Australians regard this nutrition packed fruit as "medicine berries" they are used as a treatment for sore ears, has antibacterial properties and topically mashed down and spread over skin irritation and sores and generally consumed as an immune system booster. These berries contain levels of Vitamin C and Magnesium and potassium.

Lilly Pilly Jam

Easy

40 minutes preparation and cooking time

2 cups of Lilly Pillys berries washed and deseeded

$\frac{3}{4}$ - 1 cup sugar (depending how sweet you like your jam)

2 lemons juice and 1 lemon finely grated

Jam setter if required

Place berries in a saucepan on low heat and stir so they don't burn, when fruit becomes soft and starts to boil add juice of lemons and finely grated lemon and the sugar. Stir and cook for another 5 – 10 minutes on simmer. Test jam on saucer and place in freezer for a few minutes to see if sets. If not setting add some jam setter, simmer for another 5 minutes. Place jam in warm sterilized jars, seal and enjoy with scones, toast, cheese etc.

Palmer
Wind Farm

The Palmer Wind Farm would help reduce Australia's carbon footprint by generating up to 300MW of clean energy when constructed. That's enough annually to power up to 150,000 South Australian homes.

We are proposing changes to the Project to reduce the land required by using fewer, taller turbines with larger setbacks from existing dwellings.

We are holding drop-in sessions to provide an update on the proposed changes to the approved project.

- Tungkillo Soldiers Memorial Hall – Wednesday 15th November, 11.00am to 1.00 pm
- Palmer Hall, Collier Park - Wednesday 15th November, 5.00 pm - 8.00 pm
- Mount Pleasant Soldiers Memorial Hall – Thursday, 16th November, 5.00 pm - 8.00 pm

MEDIA RELEASE

ONE NUMBER TO MAKE CONTACTING MID MURRAY COUNCIL FASTER, EASIER

Got an inquiry about your rubbish collection? Need to pay a Council bill? Want to report a wandering dog? Whatever the reason for calling, getting in touch with the Mid Murray Council will soon be even easier.

The Council is about to implement a one number telephone system – meaning no matter why you need to get in touch, it will be as simple as calling (08) 8569 0100 and following the easy-to-use numbered menu to get connected with the right department.

Mid Murray Council Chief Executive Officer, Ben Scales, said the goal of the new system was to improve each customer's experience by streamlining the process of contacting Council.

"By giving the community one number to call for all inquiries, it will make contacting the right person simpler and more convenient. The new system will also allow our customer service officers to handle a greater number of inquiries, and customers will be able to direct their own calls to the department best suited to their inquiry through the simple numbered menu system.

"Importantly, there will still be an option for callers to talk directly to customer service staff if they're unsure where to direct their inquiry."

On calling, customers will be greeted with a list of options and can select a number that is related to the purpose of their call. Their call will then be directed to the relevant department.

If a customer is unsure which option to select, or if they prefer to speak with a Customer Service Officer, they can choose the customer service option, or hold the line and the call will be answered by Council's experienced customer service team as per the current process.

Council's one number telephone system will commence on Tuesday, October 3.

Farm Fire Units (FFU) play a vital part in assisting the South Australian Country Fire Service (CFS) respond to bushfires. FFUs can often be the first vehicles on a fire ground, particularly in remote areas, and are likely to know the local landscape which is of great assistance to our firefighters.

The CFS encourages people with a FFU fitted to a registered vehicle or trailer to register as a FFU with the CFS. To learn about the requirements to register as a FFU visit the 'Farm Fire Units' page on the CFS website at <https://www.cfs.sa.gov.au/.../business.../farm-fire-units/> and read the FFU Handbook.

"CARD LUNCHEON"

It was a lovely warm spring day for the 19th of October card luncheon.

The lovely weather brought 28 card players out for the day, they came from as far as Kapunda and as close as Palmer.

Welcome back to S.A. Elaine & Neil Day after their yearly 4 month stay in Queensland with their son Ian, to escape our cold winter months.

Everyone enjoyed the delicious feast of yummy food provided by our dedicated volunteers and card players.

Lots of sweet treats for afternoon tea finished off the day with a white mud cake provided by Maureen Torrans as a birthday cake for Elaine's sister Bev Schulz, who celebrated her birthday on the day.

Thanks again to everyone who provided food and helped on the day. You are all very much appreciated.

Winners of the cards were Clem Bormann & Ollie Zadow.

Neil Day & Gabrielle were the happy Losers of the day.

Erna as always won the game of Rummie! Well done Erna you're a Champion.

Our final Card Luncheon for the year will be held on Thursday the 14th of December and it will be the usual full on Christmas feast.

Looking forward to seeing everyone on the day.
